

Title of the practice

Distribution of Books to students

Objective of the Practice – To help students and to prevent a hole in the pocket of their parents.

The Context:- The Dept. of Commerce, Economics and Computer has a good collection of books on the subjects prescribed on the syllabus. There are a lot of students who cannot afford to buy expensive books. So, these departments give books to students.

The Practice - The Department of Commerce, Economics and IT of the college distribute free books ,esp. the books prescribed in the course. These departments have their own collection of books. At the commencement of the academic session/semester, books are given to the students. Books are collected at the end of the academic session/semester. These departments have developed their own mechanism to carry out the task.

Evidence of success :- This experiment has been a big hit with the students. It benefits a lot of poor and the needy students.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

- All the needy students do not get books.
- All kinds of books are not available.
- Outdated books with outdated contents pose a challenge.
- A few students do not return books on time

Title of the practice: Women Emancipation

Objective of the Practice –

- 1.To make a girl child self-reliant and confident.
2. To liberate her from orthodox practices
- 3.To establish the pride of women in society.
- 4.To improve the skewed male- female ratio.

The Context:-

To educate women and liberate them from patriarchal norms, the college has undertaken a raft of women centric measures namely: celebration of Teej, International Womens' Day Lohri Dhian Dee. The college honours women councilors to motivate other women to take an active part in the political process to strengthen democracy. Besides, the college has launched a few women centric skilled development courses. These include: Advanced Diploma in Trainee Chef & Multi-Cuisine Cook, Diploma in Beauty Therapist & Wellness Expert, Diploma in Nanny and Elderly care, Advanced Diploma in Cutting, Tailoring & Fashion Designing and Diploma in Basic Computers. The endeavours put in by the college in this regard are in sync with the government 's efforts. Girls students are also enrolled in NCC and NSS. The purpose is to boost their confidence and make them future ready.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

The college faces challenges while implementing women centric programmes. It is sometimes difficult to convince parents to send their girls for higher - education. However, the college convinces orthodox parents through counselling. The college manages resources through philanthropists.
